During the last 40 years, Caljan Rite-Hite has designed, manufactured and installed loading and unloading solutions in parcel distribution centres throughout the world.

From your initial contact with our sales department right through to installation and subsequent service, our prime concern is to provide your business with added value – without compromising employee safety.

As no two applications are identical, we tailor a solution to fit your requirements. However, as this is based on standard components, we are able to guarantee quality whilst offering competitive prices.

A dedicated project manager is responsible for your order, as it passes through our system, ensuring that all specifications and special requirements are taken into account at every stage of production.

Safety first

On average a single accident in the dock area will cost a company approx. € 4,200 – in addition to pain and hardship, if a person is involved. At Caljan Rite-Hite we believe it is good business to put safety first.
